Probe Under Way On 80 Killed In Aircraft Tragedy

Victims Flying Home To Wales After Rugby Game

CARDIFF (AP)—Aviation experts today began an inquiry here into the latest disaster involving Britain's ill-fated Tudor air liner—the crash of a crowded charter ship Sunday in which 80 died.

Directed personally by the Minister of Civil Aviation, Lord Pakenham, the experts will try to find out why the big passenger plane packed with jubilant Welsh football fans careened wildly into a field as it was landing on a flight from Dublin.

British Labor Party To Face Rough Passage

LONDON (UP)—The Labor government's neck was on the chopping block today for the second time in a week.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee decided to regard a housing program ballot in the House of Commons tonight as a vote of confidence. If defeated, he and his government will resign.

But the Laborites did not seem likely to be beaten in the vote. They were sure they could win it, and another confidence vote on government expenditures tomorrow.

But Attlee and some of his ministers were in for some rough treatment by Winston Churchill and his Conservatives, who were set to blast the government's housing program as a failure.

Churchill himself intended to stay clear of the parliamentaryicker today and tomorrow, but he expected to handle personally a Conservative indictment of the government's defense bill Tuesday.

The government narrowly survived its first test last Thursday, winning by a vote of 310 to 296. Health Minister Aneurin Bevan was the Conservative target for today and tomorrow. He has been touchy since Labor's majority over all other parties in Commons wilted to a handful in the Feb. 23 elections.

Quebec Dolled Up, Welcome Dutch Consort

QUEBEC CITY (BUP)—Canada's ancient capital went en fete today for Monsieur le Prince.

Quebec City put on its best bib and tucker for the arrival of the Netherlands' air-minded consort of Queen Juliana, who was due here at the controls of his own plane to wind up a four-day state visit to Canada.

He called it a "thank you visit," acknowledging Canada's wartime role in helping liberate Holland and for its action in providing a temporary refuge for the then Princess Juliana.

Bernhard's trip to flag-decked Quebec City, scheduled to end tomorrow when he will leave for New York, came near the end of a lengthy air tour he made through North and South America.

Provincial government officials lined up with Mayor Lucien Bourne and his City Council to give the tall, bearded prince one of French Canada's warmest possible welcomes in freezing temperatures at nearby Ancienne Lorette airport.

A dinner was to feature tonight's program. It was being organized by Netherlands government officials in Canada and attended by Ambassador J. H. Van Roijen and Canadian Solicitor-General Hughes Lapointe, both of whom flew here with the Prince.

BRUSSELS (UP)—King Leopold's inconclusive hairbreadth majority in a nation-wide popular vote on his return to the Throne plunged the Coalition Belgian government into a crisis today.

Leopold agreed that he would abdicate if he received less than 55 per cent of the vote. He received a majority of 57.68 per cent out of a total of 5,236,748 votes.

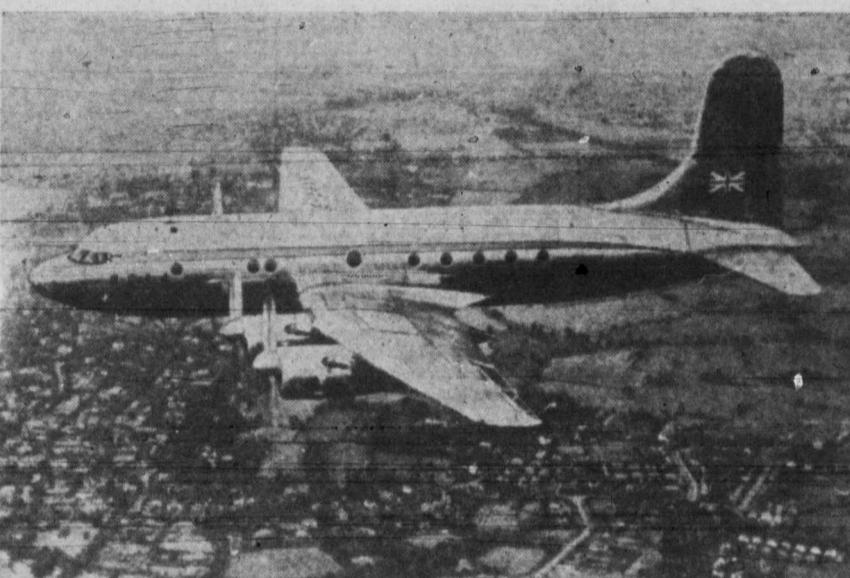

Premier Gaston Eyskens called his Coalition cabinet into emergency session this morning to consider results of the plebiscite.

Sydney's Mayor Pleads Not Guilty Of Murder

SYDNEY, N.S. (BUP)—Dan Jack MacLean, five-time mayor, on trial for his life, declared himself "not guilty" as he faced a court today charged with murdering 63-year-old vote registrar Joseph MacKinnon.

A 12-man jury was chosen within 12 minutes of the court opening, and MacLean started his hour of trial looking weary and red-eyed but apparently well composed.

The courtroom was filled as Defence Counsel Ross A. MacKinnon moved before Chief Justice J. L. Isley that all witnesses be taken outside the hearing of the court.

Premier Eyskens and his Catholic ministers were reported in favor of the King's return on the basis of the vote. Liberal ministers were against it. They said before the election they would oppose his return on anything less than a two-thirds majority.

The cabinet recessed without a decision after 90 minutes. Government sources said the ministers would hold conferences with their party leaders before meeting again for another cabinet meeting.

These sources said several more cabinet meetings might be Eyskens himself, looking harried and distraught, rushed to the Royal Palace immediately after the cabinet meeting. There he conferred with Prince Charles, brother of Leopold, who has been regent since Leopold was barred by Parliament from returning to his Throne.

3,500 SLAIN BY RIOTS IN EAST BENGAL

Heavy Property Damage Done By Religious Feud

NEW DELHI (UP)—Indian government officials said today that about 3,500 persons have been killed since February in Hindu-Moslem clashes in the Pakistan province of East Bengal.

The officials said the number injured in the bitter communal fighting was not yet known.

But they estimated damage at $7,000,000 in Dacca, provincial capital of East Bengal, where there has been heavy fighting, looting and burning of property.

The sources said that elsewhere in East Bengal damage to property was estimated at about $5,000,000.

Indian officials charged that Pakistan officials had done little to rehabilitate the Hindu sufferers or even to assess losses.

They said more than 130,000 Hindu refugees had fled to India since the beginning of the year.

They said that the heaviest casualties in the fighting had been inflicted on Hindu refugees attempting to flee Moslem Pakistan by train, boat and on foot.

The sources said this was the first official overall casualty estimate since the religious war began anew more than a month ago.

The background of the riots is the inherent and long-term hatred between Hindus and Moslems.

Cabaret Owners Tired Of Working

MONTREAL (CP)—Two veter-

Max King Jr., manager of the Cave Cabaret, said he and his father, the owner, will rent the $225,000 supper club for $1,000 a month to anyone who has cash to buy the fixtures.

The cabaret was opened 12 years ago. The Kings built the first Cave in Edmonton in 1930.

Four years later they erected a similar night club in Winnipeg.

The blaze broke out about 4 a.m. C.S.T., and was extinguished in 18 minutes. Only one stream of water was used.

Fire officials said a faulty oil furnace was to blame. No estimate of damage was immediately available.

Det. Bob Lawton described it as a pathetic sight.

Jacques and Pierre were taken to hospital but were pronounced dead on arrival.

Brave Attempts To Save Fisherman Fail

John C. Peat, 25, of 210 Gorge Road West, air force veteran, drowned in the swirling waters of the upper reaches of the Cowichan River in a boating accident while on a fishing trip with a buddy at 11:30 Sunday morning. The plight of the struggling pair was marked by courageous rescue efforts.

Arthur H. Edmunds, 30, of 528 Lampson Street, Peat's companion, won a bitter fight in the fast-moving water to gain shore after doing all he could to help his friend.

Scene was just below the steel bridge by the Lake Cowichan village.

Peat, who served in the R.C.A.F. in the Northwest Territories Command during World War II, was still alive when dragged from the frigid water by Victorians W. S. Carr, 3170 Kingsley Street, and H. R. Robinson, 1436 Fairfield Road.

Efforts to save him with a pumpmotor proved futile. After these efforts had continued for more than an hour Dr. C. W. Newhort pronounced life extinct. Constable George Phillips, B.C. police detachment, was in charge of the detachment.

Badly broken up over the tragedy, husky Edmonds a carpenter, told the Times how it happened.

Planning to stop and do some fishing they dropped anchor.

However, the rented craft got into the strong current and the anchor would not grip. Soon they were being washed downstream.

Edmonds said they tried to slow up the boat by grabbing branches reaching out over the river.

Suddenly the boat struck a windfall alder tree out in the stream. The impact teetered the boat over so sharply that it shipped water. Both occupants decided to abandon it, although the boat never did capsize, Const. Phillips reported.

A woman resident in a house not far away saw the accident and shrilled the cries that brought men on the run to the scene to help.

"We grabbed for the tree to hold on until help would arrive," said Edmonds.

GALLANT RESCUE ATTEMPT

"Peat lost his hold on the slippery tree several times. I grabbed him three times and helped him to regain the hold, but I was unable to reach him when he lost his grip for about the fifth time and went under to be carried along by the strong current," he continued.

Edmonds said he had managed to kick off his hip-waders. Peat had not. The water-filled waders contributed to his difficulties.

The last time Edmonds tried to help his friend to hold onto the log, he also lost his own hold and decided to pit his strength and swimming experience (he was a good swimmer) against the river to make shore.

HELPED TO SAFETY

"I finally got within a few feet of the bank and there were plenty of eager hands waiting to pull me onto the safety of land," said the grateful young survivor.

Guy, living in an adjoining home, attempted to enter the burning building but was driven back by the flames. He suffered facial burns.

Mrs. Desrosiers was found clutching her youngest son in her arms and trying to shield the other two with her body. Sgt. Det. Bob Lawton described it as a pathetic sight.

Jacques and Pierre were taken to hospital but were pronounced dead on arrival.

JOHN C. PEAT

Carr grabbed it and the two of them dragged the man out. He was still alive. Immediate respiratory work began but to no avail.

It was estimated Peat had not been in the water more than 10 or 15 minutes.

The well-known Lake Cowichan family helped in the rescue. They are Olaf, the father, and his sons, Nels and Oke.

While Olaf tried unsuccessfully to reach the two floundering young men in a small boat, Nels stripped off his clothes and plunged into the freezing water in a vain attempt to swim over and help Peat and Edmonds. The strong current prevented him from reaching them.

The accident had attracted many people by this time.

WIDOW'S SON

Blond and slightly built, John Peat was one of five children of Mrs. Samuel S. Peat and the late Rev. Peat. The retired United Church minister died in 1943.

He is also survived by his overseas veteran brother, and three sisters, Lillian, Ruth Geraldine and Kathleen. They have been Victoria residents since 1927, prior to that time living in Queen Charlotte Islands, Pender Island and elsewhere on the coast.

The drowned air force veteran was employed at McCall Bros' Funeral Directors. He had worked there for four years. Funeral arrangements are being made by McCall's.

Peat was president of the Y.M.C.A. Y's men's Club. He was an amateur photographer.

He said there was nothing to show the

Probe Starts Into Plane Crash In Wales That Took Lives Of 80

Scene At Inquest Compared With Those After Welsh Mine Tragedies

By ALVIN S. STEINKOPF

LLANTWIT MAJOR, Wales (AP)—A sorrowing queue of Welshmen testified today at the inquest on 80 persons killed Sunday in the Avro Tudor plane crash.

Bright lances of sunshine filtered into the concrete hut at Llandow Airport, glinting on the drawn and haggard features of relatives of the dead.

Col. Harold Rees, deputy coroner of East Glamorgan County, opened the proceedings shortly before noon by saying the air crash was similar to coal mine disasters which have occurred in Wales.

It has brought sorrow into hundreds of homes, he said, and the feeling of impotence is similar to that of Welsh women who waited at pitheads when there was fire in the mines.

The disaster that occurred yesterday is a disaster unparalleled in recent times in South Wales and it is comparable only to the great colliery disasters of the past."

The inquest took place across a table on which flying officers not so long ago plotted R.A.F. flights to Germany.

Witnesses waited their turns sitting in weeping rows on folding chairs. A little field stove, with glowing coals, took the chill from the room.

TWO GROUPS WILL PROBE DR. SANDER

New Hampshire Boards In April To Make Rulings

CONCORD, N.H. (UP)—Two more medical groups moved today to take action in the case of Dr. Hermann N. Sander, acquitted defendant of the "mercy murder" trial.

The State Board of Registration in Medicine set April 12 for a hearing to determine whether Dr. Sander should be allowed to practice medicine in New Hampshire.

Soon afterward, Dr. Lloyd L. Wells, secretary, announced that a special meeting of the Hillsborough County Medical Society, to which Dr. Sander belongs, probably will be called "within the week" to consider the case. Sunday, the New Hampshire Medical Society refused to take any disciplinary action against Dr. Sander, declaring that any such action should come from the County Medical Society.

Closed to the public, the State Board of Registration in Medicine meeting will start at 10 a.m. April 12 in the State House at Concord. Dr. Sander will be permitted to appear with legal counsel and may present witnesses, if he desires.

Dr. Sander's mercy murder acquittal. He was accused of hastening the death of Mrs. Abbie C. Borroto, 59, a dying cancer patient, by injecting air into her veins last Dec. 4.

The hearing date was announced by Dr. John S. Wheeler, executive secretary and member of the state board.

Dr. Wheeler said the basis for the hearing is the same as it was when Dr. Sander originally was called to appear before the board last January.

May Return To House Before End Of Month

Health and Welfare Minister George S. Pearson is resting this week on orders from his doctor but is expected to resume his place in the B.C. Legislature before the end of the month.

The 70-year-old cabinet minister was released from Royal Jubilee Hospital Saturday after a week's confinement but was advised by his doctor not to return to his duties of government immediately.

Mr. Pearson, who suffers from diabetes, has undergone considerable hospitalization recently, notably over difficulties in connection with the government's hospital insurance scheme.

Both government and Opposition members of the Legislature are anxious to have a full report on the hospital insurance plan from the minister before the House ends its present session.

PERFECT CRIB HAND NO GOOD AS OPPONENTS COUNT FIRST

A perfect "29-hand" was dealt Sunday night to Stan Owens, 1746 Adanac Street, while playing a four-handed cribbage game.

Partnered with Cecil Wakefield, a visitor from Maidstone, Sask., playing against his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. Owens, Stan was dealt three fives and the jack of clubs. The five of clubs was turned up for the high count.

It was the first time any of the players, or the "kibitzers,"

Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson and Enid Owens, all of the same address, had ever seen a perfect crib hand.

Stan was unable to take advantage of his luck—his parents had first count and went out.

Victoria To Be Terminus Of Trans-Canada Highway

Reconstruction of the East Saanich Road as the Victoria-Patricia Bay speed highway will be started this year, it was announced in the Legislature this afternoon by Works Minister E. C. Carson, who also revealed Victoria will be the western terminus of the Trans-Canada Highway.

The new highway to Patricia Bay, to be 24 feet wide with new pavement the entire distance, is expected to cost $500,000 and will take two years to complete.

B.C. route of the Trans-Canada Highway will be from Victoria to Nanaimo to Vancouver, Fraser Canyon, Kamloops, Revelstoke, over the Big Bend Highway to Banff.

HAS DRAFT AGREEMENT

The minister gave no details of construction of the Trans-Canada road, stating that a draft agreement with the federal government on the project was received only a few days ago and was now being analyzed by the legal, finance, and engineering departments.

Consequently the route of the proposed new outlet of the Island could not be given at this time.

Mr. Carson said decision to rebuild the existing highway from Victoria to Patricia Bay airport rather than construct an entirely new highway, was made on recommendation of the Highway Board.

"We plan to undertake revisions and improvements on the existing highway to eliminate the bottlenecks and provide an entirely new paved road to the airport," he stated.

It was expected the federal government would pay half the cost of the straightening and paving of the highway.

The present highway varies from 18 feet to 20 to 22 feet in width, and following severe winter weather, has broken badly in sections. Repairs are being made to the heaved sections until reconstruction is started.

Widow, Daughter Of Victim Testify As Murder Trial Opens Before Isley

SYDNEY, N.S. (BUP)—The daughter and widow of voting registrar Joseph MacKinnon opened testimony today in the trial of ex-Mayor Dan Jack MacLean on a charge of murder.

Then asked Miss MacKinnon to stand down, and called in the widow, Mrs. Catherine MacKinnon.

Obviously still greatly distressed, Mrs. MacKinnon identified a mud-spattered, shabby-looking hat, a pair of mud-covered trousers and a crutch as belonging to her husband.

The court recessed for 15 minutes to allow the prosecution to produce MacKinnon's overcoat, which was laid aside among Crown's court evidence.

Earlier, MacLean had appeared in court for the greatest fight of his life, looking pale and red-eyed but apparently well composed.

The court was filled as Defence Counsel Ross A. MacKinnie moved before Chief Justice J. L. Isley that all witnesses be taken outside the hearing of the court.

She telephoned the Times classified department, B 3131 and placed an ad. One bicycle was advertised for $25, the other for $20. A day after the ad appeared in the Times, Mrs. Hopkins received a telephone call and one bicycle was sold immediately.

Birthday Gives Girl Chance To End Quest

A constant visitor to Red Cross clinics here during the past six months, 18-year-old Mary Sails, 2827 Inlet Avenue, finally had her wishes granted last week.

Mary, who reached her 18th birthday on March 7, was continually rejected by Red Cross officials in her earnest quest to donate her blood for the society's transfusion unit because donors must be 18 years before their blood is accepted.

However, when Mary heard the local branch of the society was scheduled to open a two-day clinic last week, things worked out perfectly. The clinic opened at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon and Mary passed her age quota on the Tuesday before, so as soon as the doors were opened at the clinic, Mary was the first donor of the 443 who gave their blood to the worthy cause.

Max King Jr., manager of the Cave Cabaret, said he and his father, the owner, will rent the $225,000 supper club for $1,000 a month to anyone who has cash to buy the fixtures.

The cabaret was opened 12 years ago. The Kings built the first Cave in Edmonton in 1930.

Four years later they erected a similar night club in Winnipeg.

Forty dollars a day. That's good pay for a few hours of work. It was what Chris Behensen, Shawinigan Lake sportsman, collected from the local office of the B.C. Game Department. British Labor Party To Face Rough Passage

LONDON (UP)—The Labor government's neck was on the chopping block today for the second time in a week.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee decided to regard a housing program ballot in the House of Commons tonight as a vote of confidence. If defeated, he and his government will resign.

But the Laborites did not seem likely to be beaten in the vote.

They were sure they could win it, and another confidence vote on government expenditures to morrow.

Eyskens himself, looking harried and distraught, rushed to the Royal Palace immediately after the cabinet meeting. There he conferred with Prince Charles, brother of Leopold, who has been regent since Leopold was barred by Parliament from returning to his Throne.

If he had received less than 55 per cent, Leopold had planned to abdicate in favor of his son, Prince Radouin.

Let Us Waste No Further Time

MORE THAN A DECADE AGO THIS newspaper in these columns began presenting arguments in support of a scheme that would ultimately result in the consolidation of the four municipalities that comprise the Greater Victoria area. Our object in so doing derived its incentive from a commonsense concept of municipal administration.

Here we are in this capital city of British Columbia with a population—embracing, of course, Victoria, Oak Bay, Saanich, and Esquimalt—of about 104,000 souls, or the taxpayers and their dependents of a good-sized community. Is it reasonable, therefore, to argue that because certain sectional interests hereabouts object to the pooling of community resources, irrespective of their local implications, the whole area should be exposed to the challenge of failing to recognize the vital economic trend of the time? We ask this question, and we assume the taxpayers of the Greater Victoria area are interested in the provision of an answer to it, because other communities are tackling—or trying to tackle—this problem of finding a way out of overlapping administration.

For example, here are a few extracts taken from an editorial which appeared the other day in the Financial Times of Montreal, citing the problem facing the suburban area of the city of Toronto:

Premier Frost of Ontario has, in effect, issued an ultimatum to Toronto suburban municipalities which are stubbornly holding out against amalgamation. Failing agreement on a solution of the mutual problems by the end of this year, he stated in the provincial legislature, "someone else" will make the agreement for them.

The Ontario Premier adds further to his already impressive political stature in thus stepping boldly into a situation fraught with petty jealousies and parish-pump politics. The situation surrounding Toronto and its neighboring municipalities has reached a stage too serious to permit pride in community jealousy of the bigger fellow, or any other minor consideration to delay a solution of the problem.

Parish pump politics have been, and are, responsible for many of Canada's most serious problems. Provincialism, an outgrowth, remains as an insuperable barrier to a truly national spirit in the country. This country has grown in stature like Jack's beanstalk during the past 10 years.

We do not plead guilty to the charge of advocating centralization. But our object in quoting the Financial Times' remarks is evoked by the hope that the "parish" pump as it reflects civic politics in the Greater Victoria area is about to run dry. For it certainly is time that the chief executives of the four political entities of this particular region together, sank their differences, composed their individual economic problems, and made a valiant effort to let it be known to the world that this community is a composite municipal whole.

Charges Must Be Supported

CHARGES LEVELED AT THE VICTORIA Police Department over alleged dissension have been discounted by the Police Commission after hearing the man who laid them. No positive purpose appears to have been served by the publication of the criticism. Citizens who look for faults in police forces—and they live in every city—have merely been given something more to use as ammunition against a group of men to whom law enforcement is entrusted here.

The results of the discussion serve only to prove how necessary it is for those who attack police forces to have their facts marshalled in a way that cannot be refuted. If the critics fail to do that, they expose themselves to charges of irresponsibility.

We make no suggestion here that the Victoria Police Force is entirely without its faults. The perfect organization has not yet been established, and probably never will be. But if the effectiveness of the department is to be maintained, public confidence in it should not be shaken by statements which the elected representatives of the people—in this case the police commissioners—cannot accept.

A Way To French Understanding

VISITS OF FRENCH PRESIDENTS TO the reigning monarch of Great Britain are neither novel nor new. Since King Edward VII—who loved his Paris, his Homburg, and his Marienbad—"negotiated" the Entente Cordiale a year or so after the Boer War the relationship between Downing Street and the Quai d'Orsay has been based on mutual understanding. It could not be otherwise. Naturally enough many of the problems which interjected themselves into the international political and economic arena after the "victorious" nations attached their signatures to the Treaty of Versailles in 1919 were not solved by the time that Adolf Hitler thought he could do better than the last of the Hohenzollerns. The rest is history.

French newspapers, of course, no longer write about "perfidious Albion." That belongs to another day. And it is gratifying to note that another President of France and his charming consort have visited the British capital to break bread with the grandson of the "Royal statesman" who set the stage for a lasting friendship with a nation of people whose co-operation and collaboration in the interests of world peace is essential.

President Auriol and his wife have concluded their visit to Great Britain—and we are told that it was "a great event" because the crowds who lined the streets let themselves go in their belief that these two nations must stick together.

Well, there it is. Great Britain and France, separated by a few miles of water, exposed to the sinister designs of some who would imitate of Adolf Hitler, obviously must stick together and persuade their respective peoples that only by putting up a stern fight against the forces of totalitarianism will it be possible for them to live in peace and security.

Passing Of A Pioneer

A GENERAL SENSE OF LOSS WILL be felt throughout this community in the death of Mr. James Stuart Yates, whose passing severs a valuable link with the past. Although retired for some time—he was in his 93rd year—he had been a prominent participant in the development of the city, especially in the legal profession, and his life was a direct connection between the events of today and the historical happenings of Victoria's early growth. Although born in Victoria, he received his education in England, and it was not until he was 26—a year before this newspaper was established in 1884—that he returned to take up his career at the bar. It was the start of more than six decades of active practice—a period during which this city developed from a small town to its present metropolitan stature. Among his recollections, Mr. Yates could boast of direct contact with Sir James Douglas and other notable figures in the story of British Columbia and its capital city. When time, with the passing of the present generation, has erased his living memory, his name will linger in the designation of one of our principal streets, a lasting memorial to a pioneer family.

Utopia must be the place where they are not figuring up new ways of mass murder.

"Paper money lasts only from eight to ten months," says a treasury report. But it doesn't last us that long.

Budapest Trial

By ELISABETH BARKER From London

THE POLITICAL weapon of the Communist trial has now been directed against a new target—the target of a small group of western businessmen still trying to carry on work in eastern Europe. This is something fresh. Since 1946, the weapon has been used to annihilate opposition political parties in the satellite states of the Soviet bloc, to undermine the influence of the Catholic and Protestant Churches, and to eliminate those leading Communists who wanted some measure of independence from Moscow. In all these cases, one of the charges against the defendants has been that of associating with the diplomats or "intelligence services" of the western powers for nefarious purposes. But the western representatives were only accused in absence, not in the dock itself.

THEN, at the end of last year, a fresh step was taken. Polish authorities arraigned M. Robineau, an employee of the French consulate in Stettin, and tried him for espionage. And now, in Hungary, a British businessman, Mr. Edgar Sanders, and an American businessman, Mr. Robert Vogeler, have been tried along with their Hungarian business associates, and have received heavy sentences for alleged espionage and sabotage.

Like all Communist trials, the Budapest trial had a much more far-reaching aim than the imprisonment of the two western businessmen. Their arrest, last November, coincided with a Hungarian decree nationalizing foreign businesses, and the elaborate melodrama of their trial was clearly designed to justify a measure which may amount to expropriation without compensation.

FURTHER, the trial seemed intended to hint forcefully that any western businessman trying to do his normal work in eastern Europe was running very grave risks and could obtain no effective protection from his own government. Western businessmen presumably are expected to draw their own conclusions from the Budapest melodrama and to withdraw rapidly and silently from eastern Europe.

The Budapest trial also serves a wider Communist purpose. Its end coincided with the Bulgarians' deliberate provocation of a rupture of diplomatic relations with the U.S.A. Both, it seems clear, are moves in a general Moscow plan to cut to an absolute minimum contacts—diplomatic, economic and cultural—between the satellite states and the West.

THE METHODS which the Russians have now drilled into their Hungarian pupils are obviously harsh. The defendants' "confessions" as finally delivered in court were strange affairs. It is clear, from the recordings of the trial broadcast from Budapest, that Sanders and Vogeler both employed phraseology which would be second nature to a Cominform propagandist but which sounds most unnatural from the mouth of a British or an American businessman. What non-Communist Englishman would speak of "the Anglo-Saxon side" following a "policy of war" or of "the People's Democracies rallying around the Soviet Union"? These are purely Communist clichés.

ANOTHER strange point is that Sanders' "confession" makes him appear anxious to present his most innocent activities in the light which would seem most incriminating. During the war, for instance, Sanders was engaged on the routine Army job of interrogating enemy prisoners of war in the Middle East and in Italy. Yet his confession presents these wartime activities as those of a British intelligence agent.

There is a further curious aspect of the "confessions." These contained admissions of sabotage to the Hungarian economy, through the deliberate strangling of the output of the Standard Telephone Co. in which Sanders and Vogeler held managerial posts. Yet, on December 9, 1949, the Hungarian Communist newspaper, Szabad Nep, gave statistics showing the full success of Hungary's three-year economic plan in the sector of telephone communications."

Journalists of Vancouver and preachers of Victoria, along with some civic leaders, are calling for broader liquor laws, while lawyers and doctors are arguing over "When is a car driven drunk?"

Broader liquor laws simply mean, give us more booze, and to the devil with the consequences. Old women and children must keep off the streets. We have a license to drive!

I do not know what these preachers are after. The Rev. William Hills told the Vancouver Board of Trade, "You can't legislate the people into heaven," and every Sunday Rev. Hills goes to church teaching the people the law, and the people respond, "Lord incline our hearts to keep this law." How can we have law without legislation?

If these preachers with their wives will take the George bus at 7 p.m. to the at 11 p.m. they will surely be convinced that the liquor laws are broad enough.

DAN REVEYER, Sidney, B.C.

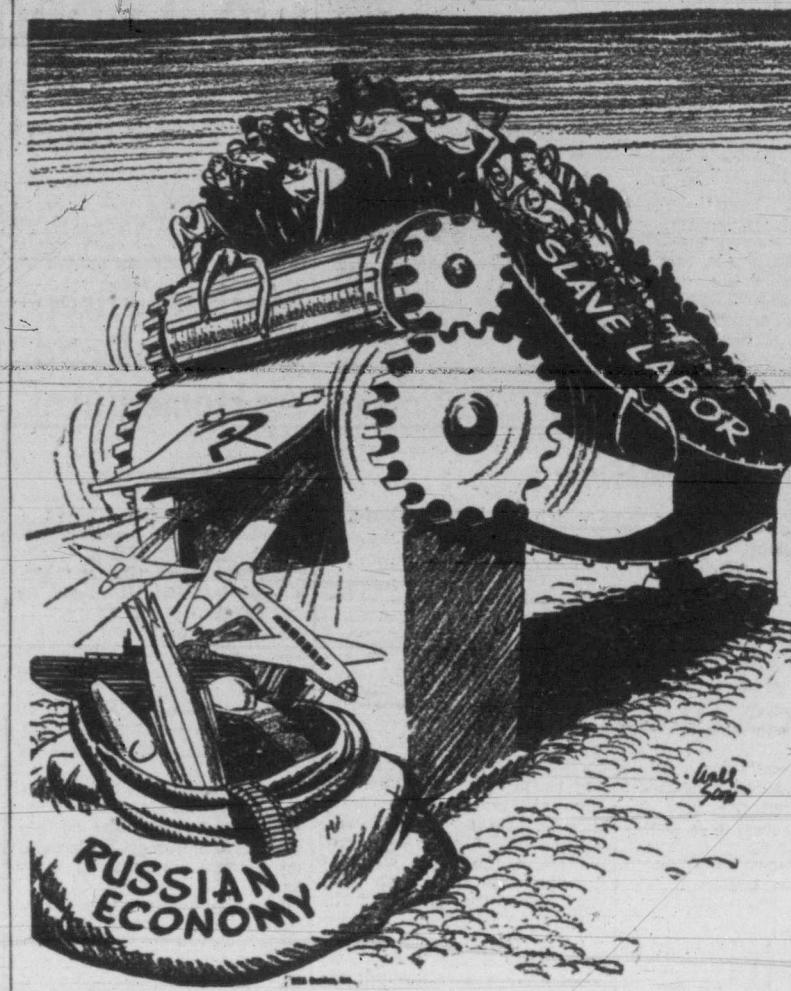

ANOTHER VIEW

As a daily reader and subscriber of our Victoria Daily Times, I would like to enter my protest against the sale of beer by the glass, in any hotel, restaurant, or in any other place for the following reasons:

BUT over a period of years, when the absorption of the provincial force is completed, it is likely that fewer men in a united force could do the same work that the two separate forces are now doing. It is more economical and efficient to have two men carrying out both provincial and federal responsibilities than to have one looking out only for provincial crime and the other federal crime. So on the economy aspect The Colonist is also in error.

British Columbia "takes great pride in its police," says The Colonist, because the force is the oldest in Canada, with "almost a century of existence." Our only answer there is that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is also a force of noble tradition and one in which B.C. could also take pride.

The Red Mill

As Our Readers See It

REGISTERS PROTEST

In view of the recent movement for hotel and restaurant sale of beer, I would like to protest.

I feel that such a policy would result in Victoria being a less desirable place to live in and do untold harm to the youth of our city.

A. D. BRIDGES, 662 Monterey Avenue.

RED CROSS AND NAVY

Each year the Red Cross in its appeal for funds stresses the work it does for war veterans. What is not generally known is that the Red Cross does not include Merchant Navy Veterans in this good part of its activities.

If enough of the public would this year make their contribution contingent on Merchant Navy Veterans getting the same treatment as veterans of the other forces, it might be possible that the Red Cross would change its present policy.

During the war, the men of our service were good contributors to both the Red Cross fund and its blood bank, as well as the means of raising many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Canadian Merchant Navy Veterans Assn. A. J. HEIDE, National Secretary.

HILLS AND HILLS

Journalists of Vancouver and preachers of Victoria, along with some civic leaders, are calling for broader liquor laws, while lawyers and doctors are arguing over "When is a car driven drunk?"

A "battle of the ballots," on the liquor question, seems to loom. Those who value money above humanity will be trying to increase liquor consumption by the people.

Clear thinking on this matter is urgently needed, and to this the Times will contribute.

A. J. SHEA, 1614 Haultain Street.

WELFARE HOUSE

Recently there has been a great deal of criticism regarding the proposed sites for the new Welfare House. We would like to take this opportunity of clarifying our position with regard to the Spencer Foundation, and also to thank the Spencers for their concern and interest in the health and welfare needs of the community. We would like to thank the Community Welfare Council, Community Chest, nor any other welfare agency is responsible for drawing up the plans for the building or negotiating for a site. We are certain that with our gratitude to the Spencers for their generous gift goes that of the board members and members at large of the various agencies and members at large of the citizens of Greater Victoria.

Although the Welfare Building is to be used mainly for administrative purposes by such agencies as the Family Welfare and Children's Aid Society, the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Community Chest of Greater Victoria, John Howard Society, and the Community Welfare Council, many groups, adults and children, frequently find it necessary to come to Welfare House for services provided by these agencies.

We request our city fathers to give careful and far-sighted consideration to their decision regarding the future site of Welfare House. A centre that forwards the true interests of Greater Victoria in these ways is surely of far more value than the finest business block.

GLOBAL SURVEY

By DWIGHT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

IT'S OF MORE than passing interest that the United States Secretary of State and the Australian Minister of External Affairs should simultaneously call for concerted and intensified effort by democracy to meet the challenge of Russian communism.

Both recognize the fundamental fact that Moscow is out for world domination. In effect, they warn folks who continue to daily with the thought that the cold war can be halted at this juncture by compromise.

There isn't anything which can halt communism, except something that is better and stronger than communism.

State Secretary Dean Acheson laid down two lines of foreign policy for this drive:

1. "To meet wherever possible all threats of the Soviet Union"—as in the cases of Turkey and Greece.

2. "To create those economic, political, social and psychological conditions that strengthen and create confidence in the democratic way of life."

A PACIFIC VOICE

Meantime in Canberra, Australia's new Minister of External Affairs, Percy C. Spender, proposed a Pacific military and economic pact "between countries that have a vital interest in the stability of Asia and the Pacific, and which are at the same time capable of undertaking military commitments." This alliance would include Australia, the United Kingdom, and other British Commonwealth countries, together with any other countries which might wish to join. He added:

"Defensive pacts are in many ways negative. We look toward a pact that has also positive aims—the promotion of democratic political institutions, higher living standards, increased cultural and commercial ties."

COLD WAR SHIFTS

The weight of the cold war has shifted from Europe to the Far East, and the outcome of the conflict may well be decided in that great theatre.

Judging from the statements of the two foreign ministers, the U.S. and Australia are thinking along similar lines in the matter of the conflict with communism. That is, the time has arrived for a "total" effort on the part of the democracies.

Any new talks with the Soviets are well worth a trial. There is always a chance that they might produce some new practical plan. Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TORIN

"I've always wondered," said the Elevator Man, "about these scientists who figure out how the Ape Man and the Missing Link and other early residents used to look. They take one bone, or a tooth, that's been dug up, or found in a cave, and from that they put in all the rest of the skeleton. That's an awful lot of bone to make up out of their heads. Mind the step!"

"Well," said the Elevator Man, "it seems that somebody back in Ontario found a prehistoric skull the other day when he was poking around on an old Indian reservation. He sent it to an expert to have it studied so that the rest of the body could be sketched out. But there seemed to be a little trouble. The skull wasn't quite right. Finally they decided it wasn't a skull at all. It turned out to be a bone from a cow—at the opposite end from the skull. That kind of spoiled the whole business, and another Missing Link is still missing. Going down!"

"You know," said the Elevator Man, "a lot of people get into the same predicament these days. They try to build a whole structure out of one starting piece, and then find they haven't got what they thought they had. Take Hitler, for instance. He picked up an ancient racial theory and tried to fit it into modern life. But it was the wrong bone. It just didn't go. And Stalin seems to be working on the same mistake. He thinks he can build a new man out of a Communist skull, or skull-dugger. But I think he's got hold of the wrong end of the cow—or maybe in this case it's a tiger."

THE HOME GARDEN

Don't Start Digging Until Soil Is Ready

JACK G. BEASTALL

The work you may do in the garden now depends on the kind of soil you have.

Gardeners with sandy loam, which means good drainage, have already started planting. Such a soil may be worked early in the spring, but dries out and needs quantities of water later on.

The clay loam, which abounds in this district, retains moisture much longer, but cannot be worked so early. The urge to start digging is great, but the gardener who can control his impatience and keep off the soil until it is in proper condition, will reap the benefits in the months to come.

HOW TO TEST SOIL

Reds Opposing Heavy New Tax Bill In Italy

ROME (AP)—The Italian government boosted the prices of gasoline, cigarettes and tobacco at the week-end to aid in paying for Premier Alcide de Gasperi's new $2,000,000,000 development program for southern Italy.

The 10-year program was approved Friday night by the cabinet.

Packages of 20 cigarettes went up 10 lire (about 1½ cents). The cost of gasoline was raised 23 lire (about four cents) a gallon.

The price raises brought immediate howls of protest from the Communist opposition. Communist Senator Umberto Terracini told the Senate the measure hit only the working man.

MARSHALL FUNDS

Marshall Plan money would be used for two-thirds of the 1950-51 expenditure of 100,000,000,000 lire ($160,000,000). The program includes ambitious plans for public works, irrigation, farm development, aqueducts, water storage reservoirs, roads and new hotels.

Meanwhile, new violence was reported from rural areas of Italy and Sicily.

In a hand-to-hand battle between armed police and some 500 Sicilian peasants carrying Communist banners, 30 police and 11 peasants were injured Thursday night near Palermo, Sicily. The police were trying to disperse peasants they said had been firing brush piles in the countryside.

Two Die In Traffic Crashes On Mainland During Week-End

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two violent deaths during the weekend in the Greater Vancouver district are blamed on traffic accidents.

One death in Vancouver Sunday afternoon brought the city's traffic death toll this year to seven.

Police have not yet revealed the identity of the victim, a middle-aged man who was struck and fatally injured as he crossed Davie Street. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

The other weekend victim was 53-year-old Peter Kindlak, found fatally injured in a roadside ditch in Burnaby Saturday night. He died in hospital in New Westminster early Sunday.

HE'S A LIAR, said Dorothy Kenyon, above, of Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.), when he accused her of affiliation with Communist-front organizations. A former New York judge, Miss Kenyon was also once a member of the United Nations Commission of the Status of Women.

a handful of top soil and squeeze it tightly. Open your hand and give the soil a poke. If it falls apart readily it is ready to work; if not, it is still too wet. Next, remove a spadeful of earth and apply the test to the bottom of the hole.

Should the soil prove to be dry enough, start digging at once. Put all weeds and soft material into a pile for composting. Twigs and woody material may be burned and the ashes added to the pile. Never burn, or throw away, anything which can be made into humus and returned to the soil.

Sandy soils need humus to bind them and retain moisture. Clay soils need humus to loosen them so that air can penetrate.

OTHER JOBS

If your soil is still too wet, there are plenty of other jobs which need attention. Fences and walls will, no doubt, require some repairs. The pruning and spraying of fruit trees should have been completed. February is considered about the best time to do this work around Victoria.

There is always that tangled mass of blackberries on the back fence which you have intended to clean up. Blackberries are considered somewhat of a pest here. They have the bad habit of popping up in the most unwanted places, and it requires two or three seasons of hard grubbing to wipe them out.

There is no excuse for keeping them in this condition, unless it is in the fact that the fence will fall if they are removed. The fruit is probably small, hard to reach at picking time; the tips are rooting wherever they touch the ground, and the vigorous roots take the food needed by adjacent crops.

NEVER A PEST

In all my gardens I have had blackberries and have never found them a pest. At one time I purchased plants, but in Victoria I have used the wild berries found growing on the property. When you dig out the mess, select three or four of the best young plants from rooted tips.

Plant these in a row somewhere in the centre of the garden, spacing them about six feet apart, and train the canes to wires between posts.

The regular digging and cultivating will have some control on the roots, and if the canes are trained in there will be no tip-rooting. During the growing season select four canes to each root and remove all others.

Judicious removal of side growths during the summer will make it possible to reach the fruit easily, and I can promise you a surprise at the quantity and quality of the crop.

NO EVIDENCE RAT IN COLONY

EDMONTON (CP)—Investigation has uncovered no evidence that the rat killed last week in a downtown Edmonton building was a member of a colony, Dr. G. M. Little, medical officer of health, said Sunday.

It's probably the old story of a single rat coming into the city on a railway freight car because that's about the only place it could come from," he said. "I can't imagine a colony getting started here without someone seeing the rats."

Provincial Police in Burnaby say there were no marks showing how Kindlak was injured, but that they are reasonably certain that he was the victim of a traffic accident while walking along the road.

He was found by a woman resident of the district who heard him moaning.

Montreal (CP)—Provincial Police said Sunday night they were holding a 16-year-old Coveyhill, Que., boy for questioning in connection with the murder of his father, Arthur Sutton, 48, Sunday night. The youth was arrested Sunday night, police said, after his father, a Coveyhill farmer, was shot to death with a rifle following a family quarrel.

Victoria Bagpipe Player Carves Wildlife In Wood

By HUMPHRY DAVY

When Robert A. Waldie, 3891 Saanich Road, isn't playing the bagpipes he is woodcarving.

However, his woodcarvings, he admits, seem to be more appreciated than his music. Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the Provincial Museum, apparently thought so and arranged to have Mr. Waldie's carvings exhibited next week at the museum.

Flying Wheel Kills Youth

WALL TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — A wheel torn loose from a "hot rod" racing car spun into a crowd of 3,500 spectators here Sunday, killing one person and injuring another.

The car, one of a field of super-charged jalopies competing at the Monmouth County airport raceway, careered wildly close to the crowd before it was brought to a safe halt.

Its driver, John Chapman of Metedeconk, N.J., told police his ancient racer had blown two tires.

The wheel crashed into 17-year-old Albert A. Jester of Avon, N.J. He died in an ambulance en route to hospital.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

Unseen Rain Does the Damage

Many people know their roof leaks and often do nothing about it. Even though they know that when rain seeps through a worn spot it causes the roofing boards to rot and decay—adds up to expensive trouble.

The best way to prevent destructive leaks is to have an expert like your Johns-Manville dealer carefully check your roof for worn spots. If he advises a new roof, ask him about J-M Asphalt Shingles. They're colorful, attractive and long-lasting. For extra protection against fire, choose J-M Flexstone Asphalt Shingles made on a base of heavy fireproof asbestos felt.

For free J-M Asphalt Shingle folder, write Canadian Johns-Manville, 1206 Homer St., Vancouver, or see your nearest J-M dealer.

Manitoba Goldeyes Found In River At Medicine Hat

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP) — Lake Winnipeg may be fished out of its famous goldeyes, but they have not all gone into the frying pan, fishermen here say. The well-publicized fish have simply migrated to Medicine Hat, using the Saskatchewan River water-course for the devious 600-mile trip.

For years goldeyes have been common to this region—although Winnipeg has always claimed to be the cradle of the prairie delicacy. Local fishermen have kept mum, preferring to have the game rather than the name of an anglers' paradise.

As a result, goldeyes population of the big South Saskatchewan passing through Medicine Hat has increased in inverse ratio to the decline reported by Lake Winnipeg fishermen. This week some noses were counted.

It has long been a moot point where goldeyes hibernate. Manitobans have always claimed "their fish" have come home to nest in the winter. Sportsmen here dispute this point.

Directors of the Fish and Game Association, headed by Jack Clark and Harold Ronnenberg, have just completed a survey through the ice. Test-holes were made at lengthy intervals over a five-mile stretch of the river. Their census shows literally hundreds of Lake Winnipeg goldeyes spending the winter in the deep hole in this district.

'Til the Roads Run Out and Stop

We are proud of our role as major passenger transport system for this Island of ours. It's a vital link we form between settlement and town, farming community and city. Today we have reorganized, concentrating our resources in this major task to give an even more complete service than in the past.

From Campbell River south to Victoria ours is the network that links the whole settled portion of the Island. To the north our service thrusts on, fifty miles through country that knows only the woodsman's axe. Through snow and ice, summer days and winter blizzards, our buses hold their daily schedule. Two and a quarter million miles, over two million passengers each year, that is our proud record.

Feeder buses serve outlying communities, great Diesel-powered, luxury-built coaches maintain the "Islander" schedule. Businessmen, tourists, farmers, loggers, these are our clients and more and more come to rely upon the safety, the comfort, convenience and courtesy of Coach Line Service.

It's not an easy task, the maintenance of our fleet of 80 units. Courage, skill and a sense of responsibility must ride with every driver. Not a run was cancelled despite seemingly impassable roads this winter. It's not easy, no. But the reward is there in the knowledge that ours is a vital service well performed... that more and more people are saying: "Let's go the Coach Lines Way."

Vancouver Gains Second-Place Tie

The northern division race in the Pacific Coast Hockey League goes into the final week today with either Portland Penguins and Seattle Ironmen being voted the most likely not to make the playoffs.

Vancouver Canucks temporarily at least moved out of the danger spot by whipping Seattle last night, 5 to 2, to move into a tie with Tacoma Rockets for the runner-up position.

The Seattle defeat left the Ironmen and Portland Penguins tied for fourth place, two points behind Tacoma and Vancouver.

Vancouver took the lead in the first period on Willie Schmidt's long shot and were never headed. Canucks turned the game into a rout in the final period with three full 20-minute periods.

In northern division games Saturday Vancouver and Portland played to a 3 to 3 tie, Seattle defeated Tacoma 5 to 2, and New Westminster Royals trimmed the Cougars, 6 to 2.

Cougars were in the game for just over two periods but the Royals saluted it away in the final 10 minutes of the contest.

Down south Los Angeles Monarchs took over second place by defeating San Diego Skyhawks, 2 to 0, and San Francisco almost killed Fresno's chances of making the playoffs by edging the Falcons, 4 to 3.

Tomorrow night the Canucks meet the Cougars here in the last meeting between the two clubs here this season.

CZECH HOCKEY TEAM STAYS HOME

Action Of Hungarian Skater To 'Jump' May Have Caused Move

LONDON (CP)—The world amateur hockey tournament opened today without the world-champion Czechoslovakian team.

The Czech government decided to withdraw the Czech squad to defend the title. The decision announced in Prague puzzled officials here.

After a mix-up concerning British visas for two newspaper men who were to accompany the team—cleared up late Saturday by the Foreign Office which telegraphed Prague that the visas were available—it was reported that the Czech team would leave Prague today.

Then, as far as it could be learned, the Communist government decided not to permit the team to leave. Some observers lined the decision to the reported step taken by Ede Kiraly, Hungarian figure skater, to "jump" while in London. They said it might be feared that the Czech hockey players would take similar action, as several have in the past.

J. F. Ahearn, secretary of the British Ice Hockey Association and organizer of the tournament, had no comment on the Czech withdrawal.

He said the withdrawal of the Czechs would necessitate no schedule shifting. Czechoslovakia had been grouped with Britain, France and Norway in the preliminary pool and non-appearance merely reduces the group to three—the same as the other two groups. The top two teams in each group will advance to the final pool later this week.

KILBURN TAKES MOST VALUED PLAYER AWARD

Wins Honors In Prairie Hockey; Select All-Stars

CALGARY (CP)—Edmonton Flyers placed three men on the Western Canada Hockey League's 1949-50 all-star team and the first-place club's ace forward, Colin Kilburn, won the most valuable player award for the season. President D. P. McDonald of Calgary announced Sunday.

Calgary Stampeders, Saskatoon Quakers and Regina Capitals each placed one man on the team:

Veteran Russ Dertell of Stampeders, whose seven shutouts set a league record, won the Dave Dryburgh memorial trophy after being voted the circuit's best goalkeeper.

Detroit now leads with 80 points, Toronto has 70, Montreal 67 and New York 65.

MEINLL BRILLIANT

Young Gerry McNeil, playing his fourth game in the Canadian goal since Bill Durnan was injured, turned in a spectacular game in the Montreal shutdown over Boston Saturday.

Maurice Richard, scored his 35th and 36th goals, with Elmer Lach, Cal MacKay and Billy Reay and Abel getting the others. Roy Conacher and Bob Goldham scored for Hawks.

The first team follows:

Goal—Russ Dertell, Calgary. Defence—Pug Young and Gordon Watt, both of Edmonton.

Centre—Tommy Burlington, Saskatoon Quakers.

Right wing—Ab McDougall, Regina Capitals.

Coach—Frank Currie, Edmonton.

Another great goal-tending performance was given by Turk Broda, 35-year-old veteran from Brandon, who earned his ninth shutout. He never before got more than eight shutouts in a season. That was during his second year in the N.H.L. in 1937-38.

Goal-getters were Bill Ezinicki, Bill Barilko, Sid Smith and Ted Kennedy.

Wings had no trouble with Hawks before a home-town crowd of 13,451. Gerry Couture, Joe Carver, Red Kelly, Gordon Howe and Sid Abel were the sharpshooters, with Jim Conacher spoiling a shutout for Harry Lumley.

On Sunday, Canadiens finally clinched a playoff berth by wallop the injury-weakened Rangers before a Madison Square Garden crowd of 14,123. Pentti Lund got Rangers' only goal in the first period. Canadiens roared back in the second frame to score four straight, honors going to Ted Bell and Pierre LaBelle. After the popular Bell and LaBelle had taken the first fall when the former's drop kick rendered Katonen helpless, the latter came back to end it all by putting LaBelle out of action with his deadly Japanese sleeper hold.

Clever Dano McDonald, who treated the fans to some classy grappling, was awarded his match with the veteran Rod Fenton on a foul. The latter just couldn't resist using illegal tactics.

Roy Speller, Victoria, and Tyke Myren, Vancouver, battled to a 20-minute no-fall draw.

Canadian Commerce Chamber Urges Cut In Federal Taxation

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Chamber of Commerce said in a brief presented to the government today that the steady rise in government spending and the maintenance of high tax rates may spell danger for Canada in the future.

The annual statement by the chamber on national fiscal matters was presented to Finance Minister Abbott and Revenue Minister McCann by delegation headed by E. C. Wood of Montreal, vice-chairman of the national business organization.

The brief asked specifically that:

1. The government take steps to reduce still more the burden of direct and indirect taxation.

2. That a Royal Commission be appointed to study government organization and administration.

Although paying tribute to the general stability of Canadian government fiscal policy, the chamber said that nearly five years after the cessation of hostilities "personal and corporate tax rates remain at peaks that have no peace-time precedent."

Serious observers of social and economic development, said the chamber, are constantly watching for evidence that the incentive to work and save in all sections of the community are maintained. They also were watching that such incentives were not impaired "by an over-reaching desire for social security which can become merely a will-o'-the-wisp."

"The C.C.C. recognizes the responsibility of the individual in a free society to exert every effort to solve his own economic problems and deplores the growing tendency to look to government for help in every difficulty. Approval of the principles of social welfare does not mean that it is the business of the state to provide those services which are properly the responsibility of the individual."

"With a corporate tax rate of 40 per cent and personal tax brackets that range up to 80 per cent, the question is obvious whether the inducements to work harder, to save more and to accept added risks are really as strong as they used to be."

DOMINION AND PROVINCES

3. Urged revision of present taxation arrangements between the Dominion and the provinces.

4. Urged elimination of the sections of the Income Tax Act which empower the minister to require a corporation to distribute the income which in his opinion exceeds what is reasonably required for the operation of the business.

5. Recommended changes in the Dominion Succession Duties Act to achieve more equitable taxation of estates of more than $50,000. (A $49,000 estate now is free from federal succession duties; one of $60,000 pays not on the excess $10,000 but on the full $60,000.) Also recommended relief for estates severely affected by combined attack of succession duties and income tax.

THE CHAMBER URGES

scrutinizing expenditures carefully and to keep them within the ability of the country to pay.

The brief also:

1. Asked for elimination of the present practice of taking a company's income and then taxing the same income again when it is received by the shareholders, who together constitute the company.

2. Urged that all businesses of whatever kind, whether corporately, co-operatively, privately, publicly or governmentally owned, be equally taxed.

Canada's New Jet Creating Records

Performance In Latest Tests Surprises Observers At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Before a distinguished audience, Canada gave the first formal demonstration Saturday of the long-range jet fighter she designed as the answer to her geography and climate in the cold war era.

The demonstration left veteran R.C.A.F. pilots talking like elated schoolboys and foreign observers obviously impressed. Combined with a later display of Canada's first jet transport, it left little doubt that this country, with two major postwar strides, has definitely and spectacularly come of age in the world of aviation.

Billed as the most powerful fighter in the world, the 52-foot long, sleek black beauty now known as the CF-100, showed the power of a peregrine and the delicate finesse of a racehorse.

EASILY HANDLED

On wind-swept Rockcliffe Airport, it dwarfed an R.C.A.F. Vampire, the jet fighter now in use. In the air, sweeping down over the dignitaries huddled beneath blankets and coats, it rolled, turned and handled with an ability that wartime pilots were talking about hours later.

Bill Waterton, the test pilot with the bushy mustache who was taking the CF-100 up for the 11th time, put it up to 575 miles an hour without ever going outside the circumference of the air force field, a big feat in itself. Its ultimate speed is a secret.

Everything Waterton did in 15 minutes in the air was plainly visible to an audience that included Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, the Governor-General Viscount Alexander, Defence Minister Claxton and other cabinet ministers, representatives of some 20 foreign governments, members of parliament and others.

The plane Waterton flew was operating at only 60 per cent of its power. But at one point he brought it across the biting cold of the field at 115 m.p.h., close to stalling speed, then pointed the nose up and poured the power on. The plane went snorting upward like a brute unleashed. At another point he tried to make the vital high altitude climb to claim the title of "outstanding."

The fighter wasn't put through a full bag of tricks. It wasn't loaded with a full load of fuel or armament and it still has to be given the vital high altitude and all-out speed tests.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Loss of more than $3,700 to two masked men who attacked him in his west-end room was reported Sunday by John T. Murphy.

Murphy told police he answered a knock at his door, was struck by one of the men and knocked to the floor. His attacker entered the room and struck him again, he said, as he attempted to rise, while the other man remained in the hall.

U.N. Boy Scouts Poisoned By Food Served At Dinner

NEW YORK (AP) — Ninety persons were taken ill of food poisoning Sunday night at a United Nations' Boy Scouts' Association dinner.

Benjamin Cohen, U.N. Assistant Secretary-General, Scout Commissioner Scott Trumbull of Pittsfield, Mass., and the latter's wife and daughter were among those affected in varying degrees.

Food for the dinner at Lake Success was purchased by a mothers' committee of the group of parents which sponsors the scout unit, composed of children of members of the U.N. secretariat.

Nassau County health authorities today opened an investigation of the incident.

Dairy Leader Discovers Religion Best Factor To Bring Into Business

"And better people make better farms, because somehow God and a prosperous farm just seem to go together," Howard Selby relates. Mr. Selby, a life-long leader in the farm co-operative movement, is president of the Walker-Gordon Laboratories, of New England Inc., and since 1934 general manager of the United Farmers' Co-operative Creamery Association Inc. in Boston, Mass.

By HOWARD W. SELBY

A man may engage in business for one of three reasons. One is to make money—never mind how, so long as he does not tangle with the law. Another is to make money decently and scrupulously within popular respect. A third is to produce something better in the world—and at the same time make money.

I hold to the latter purpose; that the object of business is not only to make a fair and honest living but to help make people better and happier. Many a man who once thought that business and religion did not mix has discovered otherwise. Many a man has found that the practice of religion pays. But one cannot take it up with the sole motive of becoming more successful. He cannot adopt religion as he would a new accounting system.

I wish all business men Howard W. Selby would realize that it is not only good religion but also the best kind of business to serve humanity and make God their partner. I believe that God may require one man to engage in business for the same object that He calls another to serve in the pulpit.

I happen to be in the milk producing business. Our co-operative dairy association seeks to raise milk production among its members to the highest possible standard and volume—which means raising the standard of our producing herds. We want better cows, but I doubt that we'll have better cows without better men.

If this sounds like an eccentric statement, let me risk another: there is a direct relationship between religion and the dairy business. In place after place I have seen the standard and quality of milk advance after the standards and quality of a community have improved. Religion makes better men; and better men in a dairy community are interested in developing better cows.

TRIES TO EXCEL

It is all of a pattern, with God as a centre. An earnest Christian is never content with the average or with mediocrity; he strives always to excel.

In a Vermont meadow, one of our co-operative's farmers pointed out to me a weather-beaten dilapidated farmhouse several fields away.

"A generation ago," he said, "that was a prosperous farm. Fine, upstanding people lived there. The place had no mortgage upon it, and its family had money in the bank. Anyone in the neighborhood in need of a thousand dollars could borrow from those people at any time. Now it is a marginal farm under the burden of a heavy mortgage. Its owner is poor, struggling, and constantly in debt."

"Yes," I broke in, "I think I can complete the picture, although I don't know the people. The family which lived there a generation ago got up early on Sunday morning to do the chores. Then the team was harnessed to the buckboard and driven to the crossroads church. "But the family now living there is bound down by the burden of the place. Those people never seem to get their chores done because of their mental attitude, so they don't get time to go to church. Much of their trouble is worry. They left God out of their lives, and the mental malady crushed the spirit out of them. The older family had God for a partner—and the driving power which led it to success."

"That's right!" said my farmer friend. "You've described the situation exactly. Somehow, God and a prosperous farm seem to go together."

We hope soon to install a personnel man whose job will be what the preachers might call evangelistic. He will work with the practical side of our manpower situation, but his chief purpose will be something higher. He will have social ideals, and will seek to bring labor and management to an understanding of each other. He will try to show the laborer that he must give a full, honest day's work for his pay, and he will show management that they must be fair in all their dealings with labor.

But perhaps his greatest function will be to put romance into this business and emphasize the dignity and importance of each worker's individual task.

Pressure On U.S. To Decide On Japanese Treaty Problem

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman may have to decide soon whether the United States should press plans for a Japanese peace treaty.

His advisers appear to be split on the issue, with some holding that American interests would best be served by delaying a treaty indefinitely, while others insist that a Japanese peace settlement is essential to the far eastern policy of the United States.

Moves by Britain and Russia, meanwhile, have built up pressure on the administration for a nearly decision.

Russia is making propaganda capital out of the fact that her conference on terms which would appear acceptable to the western powers. That could place the United States in a tight spot unless it first makes up its mind whether it wants a treaty.

Attractive model displaying fashions from the new spring collection of the Hudson's Bay Company is shown above, together with a section of the crowd who attended the fashion show given by the Hudson's Bay Company in connection with the opening of their new Fashion Floor on Saturday. The attractive color scheme, luxurious carpeting and soft indirect lighting formed a very effective background for the trend-setting fashions shown.

Navy was the number one color with the new wheat shade and pearl grey running close seconds. The keynote of the group was simplicity. Suits modelled were semi-tailored with slim uncluttered lines. Jackets were softer, fitted and shorter to balance the season's shorter skirt lengths. The new bloused jacket was also featured. Belts were used on many ensembles and drop shoulders were popular in suits and dresses.

Coats modelled were softer, easier, more rounded with a new

"wider-at-top" look. Sleeves played an important role . . .

some tapering to the cuff, others wide and hanging loose. Other new sleeve treatments included modified dolman and push-up style. Belts were a strong feature. Several very smart figure fitting coats, gaining in popularity this season, were also modelled. Shorties stressed the belted style . . . fitted in front and very full in back.

In the afternoon frocks, again simplicity was evident. The newer models were basic wardrobe jewels in crepes and failles.

Pleats played an important part in the 1950 Fashion Silhouette.

Skirts were for the most part slim and narrow, often broken by side treatments. However, the full skirt was also used. Crisp white accents in collars, cuffs and facings seem to be big news.

Dramatizing the elegance of suits and afternoon dresses were some fabulous spring furs.

Especially noteworthy was a new navy blue squirrel cape, a cream colored Russian fitch cape and a beautiful finger-tip length mink jacket.

Accessories matched the cos-umes rather than contrasted and the "little-boy" trend was very evident in the small hats

modelled.

By ART STOTT

THERE'S THIS to be said for broomball games — they probably don't hurt the players any more than falling into a cement mixer. Maybe not as much.

Almost all the Victoria and Oak Bay Kiwanis Club members who played last week could skate off the ice when the fray was over. Some of them skated off better than they skated on. Had more practice.

You can kid "almost anybody into playing broomball."

"Look, we'll dress up, get on the ice and have fun," you say. "Only be on a couple of minutes. It'll give the crowd a laugh and we'll have some fun. Shucks, you're only as old as your arteries."

The arteries don't say anything, not out loud.

* * *

THERE ARE lots of attractive features about broomball. A man doesn't have to be an athlete to play it. He needs hardly any skill at games. He just wades in, swings his broom at the ball, or at the opponent, depending on the rules he sets.

If he's in good physical shape, he probably gets away with only a few bumps and bruises. That's cheap enough for a good cause. But when a fellow steps out of an office, soft and unaccustomed to strain and hard knocks, he's tempting fate.

There are rewards. There's music in the after-game chatter. "Did you see old Charlie take out the big fellow with the red hair? Didn't think he had it in him."

"Say, that guy on the other side could really skate. Bet he's played his share of hockey."

"We whipped 'em, didn't we, Grandpappy?"

* * *

IT'S ALL good fun, and what's a lump on the head? But the little guy who makes a business of physical education, cringes when he sees the unconditioned older men playing. He knows what the extra sprint means to a tired "ticker." He can almost hear the ligaments going.

But like picnic races for men over 60 and tugs-of-war for veterans, these violent exercises often keep the "over-40s" from growing older. Nobody lives forever.

* * *

MUSIC IS in the air at public skating sessions in the arena. It's tantalizing music, tantalizing because although you know it's there, you can't quite hear it.

That's one of the refinements of the public address system. It has its advantages. The skaters can't get out of step when there's no beat to follow.

When the man comes to the microphone at half-time and makes an announcement, the patrons all know he's telling them to skate around the opposite way. If he had been telling them to get off the ice while it was scraped, they would have seen the scrapers getting ready for their jobs. You hear with your eyes at the rink.

* * *

THE YOUNG man about town thinks he'll have grandchildren before Victoria has a new city hall. But he thinks the city departments will be housed in different quarters.

"They ought to look at the Belmont Building again," he says. "The space there is ample for a city hall and for police and court, too. The city should make a deal with the Dominion government. It would be good business."

* * *

SPRINGTIME, and the tadpoles are hatching in the ponds around Victoria. Springtime, and the human tadpoles begin their wiggling at the Crystal Garden swimming, etc., in the water pool.

Before the sessions are over, Greater Victoria will have taught scores more boys and girls to swim and will have helped those who can already keep themselves afloat to swim better.

The classes were a long time coming to this town. But they are paying off now in greater water safety. The results don't make big headlines. They help to prevent big headlines announcing drowning accidents.

In the old days, tradition had the youngsters playing hokey to go to the swimming-hole. Now they make sure they aren't absent on days they go to the Garden.

THE WAYS of the mail puzzle B.C. Electric's Bob Travis. The head of the Canadian Scottish Regiment received a city scroll last week thanking him for his war service. It was posted Dec. 1, 1946, and addressed to Gordon Head Camp.

"I thought it was a gesture from the city honoring the regiment for its recent services, until I saw the date. My boys got theirs years ago. It makes you think your name isn't a well known in town as you thought

MINISTER EXPLAINS

Job Shortage Was Caused By Weather

Unemployment in the province during the winter was not due to lack of public works projects, it was stated in the Legislature today by Works Minister E. C. Carson.

"I am compelled to point this out," he said, following requests and demands from many organizations for public works to ease the job situation.

Unemployment was brought about almost entirely by climatic conditions, the minister said, and during the time when there was a clamor for public works to provide employment, he decided that it had to shut down some jobs because of bad weather.

"I would like to say," Mr. Carson added, "that the public works program on roads, bridges and buildings has, in a very great measure, assisted to maintain a high level of employment in this province."

The minister said that as far as he knew, there had not been a surplus of painters, builders, roadmakers, bridge builders and other similar workers.

"It would seem to me that rather than there being criticism, there should commendation for the scope of public works that have been carried out by this government," Mr. Carson said.

Family Home Of Shipping Agent To Be Museum

The old family home of a Victoria shipping agent, Kenneth Briggs, director of King Bros. Ltd., is to become New Westminster's first museum.

Before the sessions are over,

Greater Victoria will have taught afloat to swim better.

The classes were a long time

Says Engineer's Resignation Shows Need For Higher Salaries

The government must pay higher salaries to retain key personnel, said Works Minister E. C. Carson in the Legislature today when he announced the resignation of one of the province's highest paid and most responsible employees, Harry C. Anderson, chief engineer and Highway Board chairman.

Mr. Anderson is leaving at the end of the month to become general manager and vice-president of General Construction Co. Ltd., Vancouver.

"Once again we are losing a valued civil servant because of a lack of understanding on the part of the public that in order to retain men of outstanding ability we must be prepared to reward them according to their work," said Mr. Carson.

This was not the first time it had happened, and it would not be the last "unless the public of this province are prepared to really do something about it."

PROPOSALS

BRING PROTESTS

The government was prepared to "grapple with the problem" but when it was suggested that the situation be rectified, there was a deluge of protests from unthinking people who did not realize many outstanding men were willing to take part payment for their service in the knowledge that, in some way, they had been working in the interests of the government.

Mr. Anderson has been a member of the Association of Professional Engineers for many years. He was president of the B.C. body in 1944.

Says B.C. Needs New Libraries

B.C.'s Public Library Commission in its annual report to the provincial Legislature has reiterated its opinion that libraries are institutions for public education and are entitled, as such, to financial support from the government.

The government was prepared to "grapple with the problem" but when it was suggested that the situation be rectified, there was a deluge of protests from unthinking people who did not realize many outstanding men were willing to take part payment for their service in the knowledge that, in some way, they had been working in the interests of the government.

It may be," said Mr. Carson, "that the departure of Mr. Anderson from the government's employ will be the last straw which will finally bring the light of understanding to those who have made it impossible through their protests to reward adequately men of Mr. Anderson's calibre."

Mr. Anderson is one of the province's highest paid civil servants. His annual salary was increased to $7,900 which was increased to $9,000 in the past year in an effort to hold him in the positions he occupies.

In announcing his resignation in the Legislature today, Works Minister E. C. Carson said the history of Mr. Anderson's career does not tell of the cheerful manner in which he carried out his duties nor the strain and stress under which he worked during the period when he had been so short in technical staff."

"The history of his career does not touch, either," said the minister, "on the years of devotion to service, the unselfish manner in which he, at all times, gave of his knowledge and experience and the many long hours of overtime work under trying circumstances."

Mr. Carson has been a member of the Association of Professional Engineers for many years. He was president of the B.C. body in 1944.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Children love to play in water. They paddle and splash vigorously when they get into the bathtub and they never lose an opportunity to dunk their hands and arms in water.

Mrs. F. A. E. writes: "My little one-year-old has a habit of going to the bathroom and playing in the water in the stool. I put the lid down and she raises it and puts her hands in the water and mouth on the stool."

"I do not want to punish her for doing this as she is not trained yet and might take a dislike to the bathroom. She doesn't seem to understand what is expected of her when she is put on the stool."

"When we go out Saturday nights she stays up as late as we do. We can very seldom find a baby-sitter so we have to take her with us. She will not go to sleep at her regular time, of 8 o'clock, and for a few days she has to adjust herself to her schedule again. This makes it hard to train her as her feeding hours are at different times and her bowel movements irregular. Can you help me with these problems?"

Show her that it is all right to play with water in the lavatory or in a basin of water or the bathtub, but not in the toilet bowl. Get a small stool so she can reach up to the washbowl and when you find her playing in the stool transfer her to the bowl and tell her that this is the place to wash her hands or to play in water. She doesn't particularly care where she plays in water just so she can enjoy that privilege.

She is too young for bladder training, but you should be able to put her on the toilet for bowel movements at approximately the same length of time after she has eaten, even if her hours for eating are irregular.

In order to determine when she is most apt to be successful keep a chart for a week and note the length of time after she has eaten (at any time of day) when she has a movement.

Choose the preferential time to put her on the toilet. If she is successful even once, you will have given her the best illustration of what it is you expect of her and that this is the right place for it.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix: Is there any cure for boy craziness? I have three girl friends who have gone completely off their heads about boys. They can't talk about anything but boys. They can't sit still and play a game of cards with me, I am trying to do window to see if some boy is passing. They will only go to the movies if there is a slight chance of some boy bringing them home. I can't seem to get any kind of boy friend and they get flocks of them. Does it go to any good to call boys on the phone? I am not boy crazy, but I would like a few dates. What should I do?

RITA

Answer: Well, Rita, you have been exposed and it looks to me as if you were coming down with a virulent case of boy craziness yourself. But don't despair. It is a malady that belongs to your time of life. Nearly all girls have an attack of it and generally they get over it.

When girls are boy crazy they are, as you say, temporarily out of their minds. Their brains, as they have any, hit on only one cylinder. They have only one idea and that is fixed. It is indeed, to see a once normal and bright little creature as afflicted, but nothing can be done about it except to wait and let Nature take its course and let the girl outgrow it.

St. Joseph's Alumnae Plans Games, Tea Fete

A spring bridge, canasta party and tea will be held April 19 by the Alumnae of St. Joseph's School of Nursing.

Plans for the affair were made at a meeting held in the nurses' home with Mrs. R. B. Ditchburn presiding.

Mrs. G. Rose and Mrs. M. Grant were appointed co-conveners of games, and Mrs. G. C. Ness named tea convener. Mrs. I. Moore is in charge of the home cooking stall.

A tentative program for celebration of the 50th anniversary of the training school, to be held June 14 to 17, will be sent to all members, it was noted, and acknowledgement was received from student nurses for the radio-phonograph donated by the alumnae.

A report on a recent dance held for student nurses was given, and, following business, Dr. J. Fiddess said: "I sides of his travels in the United States.

Famous French designers have produced such a variety of them this spring that any woman who wants to can "wear the pants" at any time of the day or night.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

SMART END PLAY BRINGS TOP SCORE

The end play is one of the most valuable assets of the expert card player, a fact well demonstrated in the recent championship tournaments held in New York. This series of championship events was restricted to the finest players in the world, so I know you can improve your bridge by learning some of the plays they used in those tournaments.

The world championship masters individual tournament for the Albert and Philip Steiner Trophy was won by Morris Ellis of New York for the second time. This year there were 56 players in the event, and after five sessions of gruelling play, Ellis came out on top, as he had done in 1940.

Ellis employed a rather unusual end play to make his contract of four hearts on today's hand. Study the play of the cards carefully. Then when you meet a similar situation yourself, you will be able to win a top on the hand if you follow his line of play.

The opening lead of the king of diamonds was won in dummy with the ace. Ellis (North) then took two rounds of trumps, which set up East's queen. A small club was led, won in dummy with the ace, and a club returned, West winning with the queen.

which Ellis trumped. A club was led and trumped in dummy with the eight of hearts. Next a diamond was led from dummy and trumped with the five of hearts.

Another club was then led, on which East discarded the queen of diamonds. Ellis trumped in dummy with the ten of hearts and returned a diamond, trumping in his own hand with the seven of hearts.

East was helpless. If he trumped with the queen of hearts, all he could do was to win his ace of spades. But if he refused to trump, (which he did) and discarded a spade, all Ellis had to do was to lead a spade toward dummy's queen, and his contract was made.

Says Uprisings To Oust Chiang, Chinese Reds

NEW YORK (AP)—The Chinese people are going to rise up soon and overthrow not only the Communists, but the Chiang Kai-shek regime as well, deposed President Li Tsung-jen declared here at the weekend.

"The Chinese Communists were able to come to power, not because of the merit of Communism, but because the regime of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was rotten to the core," Li said in an interview.

"The generalissimo hopes for a third world war to save him. The last world war saved him from the Japanese and now he is hoping for a war between Russia and the United States so that he will be saved from the Communists."

Li says reports of Chinese guerrilla uprisings in China are "according to plan."

BOMBINGS STIR UP CANTONESE

Red Rulers Of China Meet With First Political, Military Snag

By FRED HAMPSON

HONGKONG (AP)—It appears the Chinese Communists have hit their first big crisis. It is both political and military, with an undercurrent of economic.

As might be expected, it has boiled up from restless Kwangtung province, where Dr. Sun Yat-sen started his revolution against the Manchus in 1911 and in the conspiratorial streets and alleys of Canton.

From the first Cantonese and Kwangtung villagers viewed the Red hordes with distaste and suspicion. They do not like the northerners with their mustard yellow uniforms, vaunted self-righteousness, blind devotion to the Red cause and their alien Peiping dialect.

Abetting this native hostility have been Nationalist bombings and the blockade which has brought financial ruin to many a Cantonese.

It has gradually come out that a huge resistance movement is throughout Kwangtung and that Red soldiers have been "disappearing."

The independent newspaper Sing Tao Jih Pao said today a "considerable number" of Red officials had been secretly liquidated in the last month.

A Canton dispatch today said the municipal government was to investigate discipline of all government workers.

Today's reports from Canton said the whole Red garrison has been evacuated, leaving the city in the hands of police and the Communist public safety bureau.

At the same time the Reds raided 41 Canton shops and arrested 60 merchants in an effort to stamp out the black money mart on which the Red dollar crashed last Thursday from 6,000 to 22,000 per Hong Kong dollar in eight hours.

In reporting this round-up, an official said: "Light offenders will be re-educated and serious offenders will be sent as conscripts to Manchuria."

The Communists also are organizing teams to hunt down Nationalist agents throughout the country.

Today's reports from Canton said the whole Red garrison has been evacuated, leaving the city in the hands of police and the Communist public safety bureau.

He told the House of Commons the Commonwealth gift centre would distribute to school children as many of the apples as it could safely handle.

He added: "We have incurred heavy freight charges from Vancouver which we must recover and the remainder of the apples will be sold at current prices. The donors have agreed."

Beecham Recovering

LONDON (AP)—Sir Thomas Beecham, conductor of the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, is recovering "quite favorably from his influenza," a spokesman for his orchestra said today. Sir Thomas, who is 71, was stricken March 9, when he collapsed while conducting a concert at Cheam, Surrey.

PARIS (AP)—The French Academy of Moral and Political Science today unanimously elected Gen. Dwight Eisenhower an associate member. He replaces the late Gen. John J.

Pershing.

Today's reports from Canton said the whole Red garrison has been evacuated, leaving the city in the hands of police and the Communist public safety bureau.

Enrique Montenegro and Angel Farrak, both about 20 years old, arrived in Vancouver aboard a British ship last July as stowaways. They were held in immigration detention quarters but on Friday began a trip back to Spain. They will be taken to New York and then to Spain, the immigration authorities said today.
